

LIBERATION DAY AT HAND FOR ROME

NEW WARRANT
LINKS MURPHY
TO RUM BRIBEFORMER LIEUTENANT
GOVERNOR NAMED
IN CONSPIRACY

BY G. MILTON KELLY
Lansing, June 3 (AP)—Former Lieutenant Governor Frank Murphy was accused in a grand jury warrant issued today of betraying public trust as president of the Michigan senate in 1941 by conspiring with officials of two distilleries operating in the state to corrupt the legislature.

(Murphy is not related to former Governor Frank Murphy, now a justice of the supreme court of the United States.)

Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr, whose one-man grand jury is probing charges of graft in state government, issued the blanket conspiracy warrant, naming as defendants Murphy, the Mohawk Liqueur Corporation of Detroit, Emanuel M. Rosenthal, its president, and Charles Layton, its sales manager; the Arrow Liqueur Corporation of Detroit, Abe H. Weinstein, its president, and Samuel Schreier, its secretary and treasurer. All of the individuals named are from Detroit.

Thousands Paid Out
Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler asserted the warrant was based on evidence that "several thousand dollars" had been paid as bribes to influence the fate of a bill adopted by the legislature reducing the license fee on Michigan distilleries from $5,000 a year to $1,000.

Like in two previous conspiracy warrants, this one gave no details of the alleged transaction so flatly, it accused the companies and their four named officers of giving bribes, and Murphy of being both a taker and dispenser of bribes but did not disclose mechanics of the alleged deals.

In Murphy's case, the warrant asserted he conspired with the named defendants and "divers other" persons by "offering, tendering, promising, giving and receiving bribes, money and other things of value" contrary to law and the trust reposed in him, and by "offering, tendering, promising and giving to members of the legislature of the State of Michigan money and other things of value."

In Trouble Before
On May 16 the grand jury convicted Thomas McMaster, vice president and general manager of the Arrow Liqueur company, of contempt of court for refusal to answer questions which it said could in no way incriminate him. He was committed to jail to await sentence, but on May 18 the grand jury announced that he had purged himself. The contempt charge was withdrawn and he was released.

Trouble and Murphy are not strangers. Out of a political noose he skyrocketed into a limelight as the Democratic party's nominee in a nine-man primary election contest, and was elected to the office in the fall of 1940, and was called "lucky," but not for long.

The Republican senate majority did not wait for him to take office the following January 1, but met in caucus and agreed to strip him of patronage rights usually accorded a lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the senate. Murphy did not get along very well with Murray D. Van Wagoner, who was governor.

Wanted State Car
The former lieutenant governor was blocked in efforts to have the state buy him a new automobile in his first days in office, a privilege no predecessor had enjoyed.

Three New Landings
Made Off New Guinea

BY LEONARD MILLMAN

Associated Press War Editor
American and Australian amphibious troops invaded three more islands off the New Guinea coast Friday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today. All three landings were unopposed.

The three-fold operation, flanking ground action on Biak and New Guinea, was carried out while Japanese armies were being driven southward in Burma and southwest China, and themselves made another big stride in their sweep through central China.

U. S. Sixth army troops splashed on Owi and Owendi islands, both within artillery range of the Japanese positions on Biak, major island of the Schouten group. On Biak other Sixth army troops drove the Japanese from open ground north of Bosnek, the American base. One hundred Japanese suicides were found after the counterattack was repulsed. Seven of 15 raiding Japanese planes were shot down over Biak.

The Australians' landing was on Karkar, 35 miles northeast of Madang and offshore from their advance up the coast toward bypassed enemy garrisons. Only last night Tokyo radio announced Lt. Gen. Shigeru Katagiri, commander of the Madang garrison, was killed in action two months ago. That was before the Aussies took the town.

BATTLE RAGES
ON BIAK ISLANDYanks Exert Pressure
On Bridges Leading To Airfield

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, June 4 (Sunday) (AP)—The battle of Biak Island has reached greater intensity as reinforced American troops, stalemated for six days, have resumed their hard-hitting tactics to dislodge stubborn Japanese from murderous ridge positions.

The Saturday communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, pictured his troops as exerting heavier pressure on Japanese ridge strongholds along a coastal highway which leads to three strategic airfields within bombing range of the Southern Philippines.

A headquarters spokesman said cliff-climbing Yanks reached the top of the ridge and were mopping up on Japanese snipers and machine gunners nested in caves. With the Japanese dislodged from these positions the American will be able to resume their drive toward the airbases on Biak, largest island in the Schouten off Northwest New Guinea.

The Japanese positions on the ridges also bore the brunt of American bomber attacks. The sky fighters unloaded 80 tons of bombs on the holed-in snipers and machine gunners and blasted the Japanese area.

the "grim courage and determination" of Chinese infantrymen forced Japanese troops southward in the battle for the Burma road, dispatches from the Orient said yesterday.

The first use of flying rocket batteries by fighters and bombers in the Asiatic theater broke up Japanese attempts to relieve beleaguered garrisons in north Burma. The airborne bazookas blasted trains and rivercraft headed for Myitkyina and Mogaung.

Much Japanese ammunition and equipment was captured by Americans inching forward inside Myitkyina. Airborne Chindits attacked Waingmaw, four miles south-east of Myitkyina, while other columns drove on it from the north and northeast.

LEADERS WATCH
OLD MISSISSIPPI"Solid South" Doubtful
This Year; Democrats
Face Revolt

BY JACK BELL

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Democratic leaders will watch Mississippi next week for a barometer reading on the spread of a cotton belt political revolt that has raised some serious doubts about the south's solidarity in the November presidential election.

With an anti-administration faction apparently in control, Mississippi's Democrats meet Wednesday to name a 20-vote delegation to the national convention. If some leaders have their way, it will go unquestioned and bearing a "white supremacy" banner.

Whether Mississippi will follow the patterns set by Texas and South Carolina of leaving open the course to be followed by their Democratic presidential electors was a question that apparently could only be answered by the convention's action.

However, both advocates and opponents of a fourth term said there was little doubt that the convention would condemn congressional attempts to repeal the poll tax.

Some sought to have it inveigh against the supreme court decision upholding the right of negroes to vote in Texas Democratic primaries and there was talk even of an attempt to put the convention on record against renomination of Henry A. Wallace for vice president.

BODY WASHED ASHORE

Port Huron, Mich., June 3 (AP)—The body of Second Lieut. Frank H. Moody, 22-year-old negro pilot whose plane crashed into Lake Huron April 11, was found to night washed ashore three miles north of here. The body was discovered by school boys. The flier, whose home was in Los Angeles, was stationed at Selfridge Field army air base.

SWEDISH AND FINNISH FIRMS
ON BLACKLISTNATION TO SUFFER
TRADE PENALTIES
AFTER WAR

BY JOHN N. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The United States, seeking to force Finland to break its alliance with Germany, tonight blacklisted 84 Finnish firms, including two headed by members of the Helsinki cabinet.

The action, the most drastic taken against Finland in many months, means the Finns will suffer economic penalties after as well as during the war under the new policy of continuing the blacklist in operation in the postwar period. The 84 firms are the first to be placed on the American blacklist.

One of the firms listed bore the name of Bruno Procope, identified in official quarters as the cousin of the Finnish minister here, Hjalmar J. Procope.

Cabinet Officers Involved

The two cabinet officers involved in the blacklisting operation are the foreign minister, Henrik Ramsay, and the minister of defense, Gen. Rudolf Walden.

Ramsay was named in official quarters as chairman of the board of Finland-Hamburg Befrankingskontor which was described here as a shipping agency and center of Nazi propaganda in Finland. Walden was described as owner of a paper and carton firm called Paperitute.

The same blacklist supplement issued also listed 53 Swedish concerns. It was announced several days ago that 38 Swedish firms would be on the list. The additional 15, it was learned, consist of eight firms previously put on the British blacklist but not on the American list and seven others described here as among the important business organizations in Sweden.

Wide Range Covered

Americans are forbidden to deal with blacklist companies.

It was thus brought out that the United States in the last few days has reinforced its policy of playing a strong economic hand with the Stockholm government and business interests in an effort to induce the Swedes to halt all ballbearing shipments to Germany.

The effect of the action was viewed here as an economic knife slashing into the vitals of Finland's early postwar recovery and trade prospects.

The Finnish list apparently covered a cross section of the country's economic life ranging from the great shipbuilding, forestry and other industries to an individual listing for Eric Franskel, described as a book publisher and financial director of the city of Helsinki. Some of the companies apparently had been set up with the Nazis. One heard the name of Osunkunta Kompensations Komp. It is located in Helsinki and is a cooperative of foreign traders created to facilitate

SINGLE BOMBER
HAMMERS TRUKNaval Plane Sinks Or Damages 3 Vessels,
Sets Fires

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Stagging a single-handed attack on once-feared Truk Island in the South Pacific, a navy search plane sank or damaged three Japanese vessels, strafed a number of others, poured bombs and bullets onto airplane runways, ignited supply dumps and returned to its base.

The navy told today of the raid carried out Thursday night in which the plane hit almost at will around the one-time powerful Japanese base.

It straddled a medium cargo vessel with 1,000-pound bombs and laid two others of the same size directly on her decks. She "was believed sunk," the navy said.

Then the plane strafed "a number of small cargo vessels" roared over the seaplane base on Dublon and the air strips on Eten Islands in the Truk lagoon.

Two small vessels struck by the pounding plane were set on fire. Other fires were started on Dublon and Eten Island. An ammunition dump was blown up.

Flash On Invasion
Of France Is Sent Out By Mistake

New York, June 3. (AP)—A young British girl teletype operator employed in the London bureau of the Associated Press punched out a strip of practice tape tonight and within a matter of moments was responsible for transmission throughout the United States and Latin America of an erroneous announcement that the Allies had landed in France.

Through almost incredible circumstances, the error slipped through the most elaborate system of safeguards and censorship ever established both by the Associated Press and Allied authorities.

The girl, Joan Ellis, had been practicing on a disconnected machine, and in violation of instructions included in her exercise this urgent message.

"Flash: Eisenhower's headquarters announce Allied landings in France."

Crowds Disappointed

At 4:39 p. m., Eastern War Time, the flash appeared on the AP's direct London printer in New York and was relayed immediately throughout the United States and to Latin America.

Less than two minutes later came a message, "Bust that flash," and word was sent out at once to editors to withhold publication. At 4:44 p. m., another London message directed that the flash be "killed," and this was done.

In the two-minute interlude between the erroneous flash and the withhold order, however, the incorrect news had been announced over many radio stations in America and at some baseball parks. In New York's Polo Grounds the crowd observed one minute of silence after the word was given over the loudspeaker system.

In Ciudad Trujillo, capital of the Dominican Republic, newspaper stunts were sounded and crowds gathered, only to exclaim in disappointment when the error was announced.

The error was caught quickly enough so that it did not appear anywhere in print.

SHUTTLE RAIDS
IMPRESS REDSYank Pilots Land With Clock-Like Precision
At Russian Base

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, June 3 (AP)—American shuttle bombing between Russian and Allied bases was established with clockwork precision, it was learned tonight, giving Russians an impressive view of the United States efficiency of which they have heard so much.

U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Major Gen. John H. Deane, head of the American military mission to Russia, returned to Moscow today from the dramatic first American landing yesterday at a Russian base. The newspaper Izvestia located the base in the Ukraine.

They were delighted with the smoothness with which this initial operation was carried out, and a large Russian military delegation, which witnessed the action, also was understood to have been visibly impressed by the modern equipment at the base and the perfect organization of the flight.

The landing was executed with the same neatness as American bases in England and Italy, scores of Flying Fortresses roaring over in formation.

They were called in by the control tower and refueled immediately for the return flight.

Lend Lease Supply
Bill Rushed; House
Vote Is 280 to 23

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, June 3 (AP)—After hearing a hint that the Allied invasion of western Europe may come within "the next few days," the house passed by a record vote of 280 to 23 today a $3,920,070,000 supply bill to finance lend-lease, the Foreign Economic Administration (FEA) and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA) for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The measure went to the senate after Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the appropriations committee deplored "talk about 'juggled funds' and the new deal" and added solemnly:

"Now who wants to juggle funds, when over across the seas within the next few days I hesitate to mention the number of men who are going to be wiped out?"

Allies At Gates
Of Eternal CityAxis Defenses Crumble Under Blows
Of Fifth Army; Fleeing Germans
Pillage And Burn Countryside

BY SID FEDER

Allied Headquarters, Naples, June 3. (AP)—American troops raced through Rome's outer approaches from the south and southeast tonight under orders to destroy the retreating German armies, five of whose 18 divisions already have been practically annihilated and whose defensive lines have been blasted apart.

With the city's skyline in easy view of the advancing American armor and infantry, it appeared that within a matter of hours Rome might become the first European capital to be liberated from the Nazis.

"Pursue And Destroy"

Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the Fifth army, instructed his subordinates, however, that the immediate task was to pursue and destroy as much as possible of the German Tenth and Fourteenth armies and that entry into Rome would come afterwards.

Besides the five Nazi divisions, virtually destroyed since the present Allied offensive began May 11, several others have been battered badly, and front-line dispatches tonight said further progress was being made towards the goal of annihilation.

There was no word as to how many Germans might be caught by the American, British and French troops converging below Rome and added to the 16,000 prisoners already in the Allied bag.

The belief grew, however, that the Allied forces closing in on a pocket in the northern edge of the Sacco valley still held by the enemy could hope to trap only a relatively small portion of the German units which earlier had been reported there.

This was supported by front-line accounts tonight showing that despite its apparent speed, the German retreat was not a rout.

WALKOUT IDLE
LIST DWINDLESCentral States Truck
Drivers To Vote On Protest Strike

(By The Associated Press)

The number of idle in scattered labor disputes dwindled yesterday (Saturday) to 10,000, one-fifth of the midweek total.

Four hundred bakery drivers and supervisors, whose six-day-old strike had halted bread deliveries to retailers in Cincinnati, voted to suspend their walkout "for a reasonable time" to permit action by the War Labor Board on an appeal by 13 bakers against a wage increase order.

At Lackawanna, N. Y., 140 electrical workers went back to their jobs at the Bethlehem Steel Company plant in the wake of a two-day stoppage which union leaders termed unauthorized.

Washington Greyhound bus lines voted to end their week-long strike in compliance with a W.L.B. directive. The strike had tied up service between the national capital, Baltimore, and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

A federal labor conciliator sought to settle a strike of 60 truck drivers which kept 800 production employees off duty at the Illinois Ordnance plant in Carbondale, Ill.

The Central States Drivers Council announced in Chicago a strike vote would be conducted next Saturday and Sunday among AFL over-the-road truck drivers in 12 midwestern states. Dexter L. Lewis, director of the organization, said the result of the poll would affect more than 40,000 drivers in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas, and several thousand others in adjoining areas. He asserted the operators had refused to put into effect a pay hike of seven cents an hour granted by the W.L.B. The managements made no comment.

Maj. Clark Gable

To Civilian Life

Culver City, Calif., June 3 (AP)—Maj. Clark Gable of the Army Air Forces will return shortly to civilian life, subject to recall to duty, Col. Roy M. Jones, commanding officer of the army air forces first motion picture unit, said today.

The former actor recently completed the special overseas photographic mission to which he was assigned by General H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces.

Iron Melter Strike

Detroit, June 3. (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. public relations office said that as the result of a walkout of 20 iron melters production of tank engines at the Lincoln plant would be suspended indefinitely with the completion of the 3:30 p. m. shift today.

The company said 1,655 persons were affected. The walkout was blamed by the company on the promise of pay increases made by a worker campaigning for a union committeeman post, the walkout developing when no increases were forthcoming.

AIRMEN PAVE
LAND ATTACKONLY ONE MAN LOST
OUT OF 16,000
IN BOMB RAID

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

London, June 3 (AP)—The ramparts of Europe—under vast new aerial pressure of shuttle raids by American planes using Russian bases—were blasted on the west twice today by U. S. Fortresses and Liberators without the loss of a single bomber.

Both the assaults by U. S. heavies were directed against the Nazis' invasion coast of northern France and out of a total force of perhaps 1,000 bombers and fighters taking part in the double operation, only one fighter failed to return.

The Pas de Calais region also was hit Friday by Fortresses and Liberators without loss. Thus the cost of three attacks on Hitler's vaunted west wall by nearly 2,500 planes dropping an estimated 4,500 tons of explosives has been one single-engined plane.

Coastal Defenses Jolted

This means that only one man is missing from a total of nearly 16,000 airmen flying against the Pas de Calais in the last two days—an example of the way in which the landing of ground forces at a minimum loss of life.

While the heavy bombers were hitting the coastal fortifications, hundreds of fighters and fighter-bombers of both the American and British sections of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force ranged back and forth across France and the low countries in a series of attacks on the enemy's transport and communications.

It was the second straight day that Fortresses and Liberators had flown a two-day schedule from Britain, and around 250 heavy bombers appeared in each stream lined task force that swept the coastal defenses with perhaps 1,500 tons of exploding steel. The escort was in the same strength.

Half of the 6,000-ton load was hurled yesterday by 1,000 bombers on emplacements that the Germans, awaiting invasion, have installed in the Pas-de-Calais area. Other bombers raided the Boulogne area.

From bases in Italy, U. S. heavy bombers attacked targets in

Cleveland Company Granted $495,000 For Steamer Loss

Bay City, Mich., June 3 (AP)—In an accounting ruling on one of the largest admiralty suits ever to involve Great Lakes shipping, Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle today granted the Kinsman Transit Company of Cleveland an award of $495,000 for loss of the steamer George M. Humphrey. The suit involved claims totaling nearly $2,000,000.

The Humphrey sank off Old Mackinaw Point light June 15, 1943, after a collision with the D. M. Clemson, of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co., which was damaged but repaired.

In a finding that both vessels were speeding in a fog, Judge

Tuttle several months ago ruled there should be an equal division of claims. The Kinsman Company had asked $1,600,000 for the loss of the Humphrey; the Pittsburgh Company asked $55,000 for damage to the Clemson.

Judge Tuttle's ruling today placed current market value of the lost Humphrey at $1,088,000, and damage to the Clemson, including repairs and loss of its services, at $48,803.70.

The Humphrey, when it sank, carried a cargo of 13,992 gross tons of iron ore owned by the Oliver Mining Co., of Duluth, Minn., whose claim was set at $49,027.97 to be paid equally by the Kinsman and Pittsburgh companies.

Under today's ruling, the $495,000 award to Kinsman is collectable from the Pittsburgh company.

Sunday Operation Of Bridges Assured

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed today a bill to assure Sunday operation of international bridges between the United States and Canada and the United States and Mexico.

The legislation was necessary to clarify the question of who would pay overtime for customs inspectors.

Many of the bridges have been closed on Sunday because the treasury contended that it had no authority to make the overtime payment. The legislation authorizes and directs the treasury to make the payments.

Relations Maintained

It is largely to force a halt in the supply of ferro-alloys to Germany that the United States has been pressing for several months to get Finland out of the war. Beyond this is the advantage of a break in the German satellite front. Only recently this country joined with Britain and Russia in a warning to Finland and the Balkan satellites that they must get out now in order to retain any hope for modified armistice terms.

Meanwhile the United States continues to maintain diplomatic relations with Finland and has its legation in Helsinki although no minister has been on active duty for many months. The question of breaking relations has come up for consideration on one or two occasions but the decision has been negative in the hope that by continuing to remain friendly with Finland the United States might be able to pry her loose from Germany.

He said further that the Germans were taking time in their flight to pillage the countryside and were leaving snipers behind to try to delay the Allies.

Present distances of the Allies from Rome were not disclosed, but front dispatches indicated clearly that they were short and growing shorter.

The Americans were thrusting up both the Apennine and Casilian Ways and across open country, while other Allied troops converged on routes leading up to the city.

Two Armies Joined

The British Eighth army, which had pushed up through the Liri and Sacco valleys, made a junction with the Americans on the Via Cassilina 10 miles east of Valmontone shortly before noon Saturday and continued towards Rome on that route.

Fifth army fighters smashed apart the Germans' last mountainous positions guarding Rome by seizing dominating the capital on the south. Descent from the hills would put them within ten miles of Rome's outskirts.

The Berlin radio broadcast that Rome now was "free of armed forces," indicating the possibility that the city might not be defended.

Allied headquarters already had announced that if the Germans chose to fight for Rome, the Allies "will be obliged to take appropriate military measures to eject them."

Tonight the Allied command broadcast over the free Italian radio at Naples to Italian partisan forces inside Rome, declaring "Rome's liberation is at hand" and apprising them of their duty to locate mines and booby traps which the Germans might leave behind and to prevent German sabotage.

YOUTH RESCUES TWO FROM BAY

Ernest Derouin, 20, Saves Boy And Girl From Drowning

Ernest Derouin, 20, of 306 North 12th street, rescued Sonny Coty, 9, and Donna Mae Bryson, 5, from drowning in Bay de Noc between the Merchant dock and the coal dock late Friday afternoon, it was learned yesterday.

The two youngsters, who live near the north shore, were playing on a log in the water when the log drifted from shore into deep water.

Derouin, who was fishing about a half block away, saw the log and the two children drift out and heard the excited cries of help from the youngsters. The water drops off sharply near this shore, and only 15 or 20 feet from shore the water is over 15 feet in depth.

Derouin ran into the bay fully clothed and swam out to the distressed youngsters. He rescued the five year old girl first and after he had brought her safely to shore, he went back for the Coty boy, who had gone under water twice while Derouin was saving the Bryson girl. Derouin reached Coty just as the boy was sinking for the third time.

Carrying the distressed youth to shore, Derouin dumped the water from the child's lungs and Coty responded quickly to the ministrations. He was fully recovered but thoroughly frightened within a few minutes after his rescue.

Lake Levels High In Resort Region

There is good news for cottage owners and resorters in the conservation department's report that lake levels in the northern part of the state compare favorably with the high stage of this period last year.

Some lakes are higher than a year ago and at the highest levels recorded since the geological survey division began taking lake measurements in 1937. This condition is probably a reflection of the favorable subterranean reservoir conditions of the last two years.

Average ground water levels for May were 2 foot above the 10-year May average, 5 foot lower than the record May high stage of 1943 and .82 foot higher than the record May low stage of 1940.

Within four years of the end of hostilities there will probably be some 300,000 civilian planes in service.

WAR VETERAN TO WED NURSE

Lieut. Peters Survived
Jungle Fighting In New Guinea

BY CHARLES E. MARENTE
Battle Creek, Mich., (AP)—A 24-year-old Lieutenant who survived one of the war's "impossible" injuries and emerged from the New Guinea jungles shouting praise for Army nurses will prove Sunday that he meant every word of it.

He is Lieut. Burnham L. Peters of Menominee, Wis., and he's going to take a wife Sunday. Lieut. Ann Pletzke of Chicago—an Army nurse. In fact, she was Peters' nurse the day he arrived at Percy Jones General Hospital from the South Pacific area. "She walked in and felt my pulse and took my temperature and I looked at her out of my one eye and I guess that was it for both of us," he tells, recalling that day back in March, 1943. "And I popped the question" on Feb. 26 and since then it's been our big plan."

Lieut. Adelford B. Dionne, a Catholic chaplain, will officiate at the ceremony in the hospital chapel and a reception will follow at the Officer-Patient club.

It was on that same day in March, 1943, that Peters told newspaper reporters of the amazing job being done by Army nurses and papers carried the story of the officer surviving after what Army officers termed "one of those miracles."

Lieut. Peters had been in the New Guinea jungles 28 days when he moved through swamps with troops of the famed 32nd Division. A Jap sniper fired a bullet that struck Peters directly in the left eye and cased down into his skull, lodging in the base of the brain.

Medical officers said he should have died instantly.

But he came back to tell the world about the wondrous "Army nurses who hover over war casualties."

And starting Sunday he'll tell it to only one.

Early Escanaba Days

Pioneer Horse Lovers Promoted Racing Track

—BY JOHN P. NORTON—

It was in late September, 1882 that J. N. Hiller, pioneer merchant of Escanaba, who in the later years of his business confined his stock to furniture and undertaking sold his stock and good will and retired. The purchaser was H. W. VanDyke, father of Mrs. Theodore Farrell, a present day resident of Escanaba. In addition to his furniture business, Mr. Hiller for years had charge of the American Express Company's agency in the village and that agency was also transferred to Mr. VanDyke.

Of the retirement of Mr. Hiller and the entry of Mr. VanDyke into the commercial life of the village, the Iron Port said: John N. Hiller has sold out his furniture business to H. W. VanDyke, who takes also, the express agency J. N. wants a rest and so does Van; that which seems a rest to the latter is just what the former is weary of.

In the Port's issue of Sept. 30 the final completion of the transaction was announced as follows: VanDyke took possession of Hiller's business stand on Monday. John N. is now a gentleman of leisure and Van a dealer in wooden overcoats, etc. The Port wishes them both all success.

It was also in the early fall of 1882 that the forerunner of the present Upper Peninsula State fair was established in Escanaba. The reasoning to establish that conclusion may be a little involved, but the Escanaba Driving Park association was established in that year; that organization later became the Delta County Fair association and the latter, in turn, in modern times, became the Upper Peninsula State fair.

Driving Park Started
The Escanaba Driving Park association was organized by the scores of race horse owners in the county and was liberally supported by the lovers of harness racing among the citizenship. A total of $3,000 was raised by the sale of stock in an association that was headed by Casper C. Stephenson, as chairman and J. C. VanDuzer, secretary. The association, for the sum of $300, purchased from the Ludington company, predecessors to the L. Stephenson company, 40 acres of land that constituted what was to later become the Delta County fair grounds, in the southwest section of the city. The long abandoned racing track, built by the Escanaba Driving Park association and the fair grounds site, may still be seen, east of the present Twenty third street highway, about a half mile north of the Ford River road.

The Iron Port recorded that in early October, 1882, the business section of Escanaba was provided with street lights for the first time. Businessmen on Ludington street and Tilden avenue, defrayed the cost of oil burning globes and posts, while the village government, by agreement, paid the cost of the oil, and it was the duty of the village marshal, to service the lights daily and keep them in operation. At the outset the lights were installed at the street intersections from Tilden avenue to Charlotte street, now Tenth street, and the Port, commenting on this step in advance, said: The new street lights give the city a metropolitan appearance in the evening. We should

REVIEW BOARD OPENS MONDAY

Decrease In Valuation Is Reported; Now Stands
At $7,950,420

The Escanaba board of review and equalization will open what is expected to be a week-long session Monday morning in the council chambers at the city hall.

Composing the board of review are Mayor Sam Wickman, Supervisors Elmer Klassell, Mathias Peterson, Charles Priester, and City Clerk Carl Anderson, who is also city assessor.

The total assessed valuation of the city of Escanaba on the tax roll this year stood at $7,950,420. This is 50.2 per cent of the total $15,821,000 valuation of Delta county.

The assessment roll for the coming year is expected to show a slight decrease below this year. It was reported by Mayor Sam Wickman at a recent meeting of the county tax allocation board.

Sessions of the board of review start at 8 o'clock in the morning, and the board will be in session for at least eight hours each day. The board will review the city assessment rolls as prepared by the city assessor, make whatever changes it may deem necessary, and also hear complaints. The board has authority to change valuations should there be sufficient and reasonable cause to do so.

Whether the board will go deeply into the equalization of the assessment rolls has not been announced. There has been the suggestion by Prosecuting Attorney Torval E. Strom that Escanaba and Gladstone boards of review might equalize on the true cash value of the properties, and if the townships fail to do likewise and the county board of equalization fails to act, then an appeal could be made to the state tax commission for the state to step in and equalize between cities and townships.

The prosecutor's suggestion was made in discussion of tax revenue needs of the schools and the county at a recent tax allocation meeting.

like to see them, however, on every corner of every block on Ludington street, as well as Tilden avenue.

Party for Judge Glaser

But even with all the varied activities of the village, then engaged in building a new court house, and a new school building, starting a driving club and installing the town's first street lights, a number of the friends of Judge Emil Glaser, still held in memory by many present day residents, remembered that Sept. 30 was his birthday anniversary. They surprised the even then aging jurist, on that date in the fall of 1882 and the Port offered the following comment: Saturday last was Justice Glaser's birthday. The fact did not come to our knowledge until too late for a share in the fun, but certain of his, and our, friends were better posted and having waited a sufficient time for some intimation from him that he remembered it, proceeded at about 9 p. m. without invitation, to make him aware of it. They, to the number of say two dozen, invaded his residence at the hour mentioned and proceeded to make themselves at home; they brought a fiddler and danced; they toasted the good judge in the beverage of Gambrinus; they remembered his geliebte frau and der kindchen in other bumpers and danced again; and only took their departure when the day was past and the east growing gray with a new one.

We Will Fight

COMPARED with other municipalities of similar size in the state, Escanaba enjoys a most enviable financial position. While other cities face an ever mounting public debt, Escanaba is approaching the day when the entire bonded indebtedness of the municipality will be wiped out. In fact that happy condition could be accomplished today were it not for the fact that outstanding bonds are not callable.

A state study commission appointed by Governor Kelly, to determine what, if anything, the state can do to relieve financially burdened municipalities, has discovered that the total debt of Michigan cities approaches a half billion dollars. The outstanding indebtedness of some cities is already so large that no further bond issues can be floated, to finance badly needed improvements. Unquestionably, in most instances, the deplorable financial conditions uncovered by this state commission, are due to poor planning and inefficient city government and what the state government can do about is difficult to understand.

Certainly Escanaba and other cities occupying similar financial positions, should not be penalized for the profligate spending of poorly governed municipalities and the people of this city will be justified in battling to the last ditch against any plan that may operate to reward inefficient city governments at the expense of those who have kept their financial houses in order.

Shortage of Housing

WHILE Escanaba is not enjoying a war boom like other industrial cities, there is strangely enough a glaring shortage of livable homes in this community at the present time.

Just why this should be the case is difficult to explain for Escanaba absorbed a large influx of population during the period of the Escanaba ore dock project without serious overcrowding. Nevertheless, inquiries at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office and classified advertisements in this newspaper reveal that there continues to be a heavy demand for the rental of modern homes.

Various explanations suggest themselves. With domestic help unavailable, many families are trying to move from the large to the small dwellings. Fuller employment has improved the economic status of many families, too, enabling them to move to more desirable homes. As a result, many of the old, rundown homes become untenanted, and some of these are being razed to make way for new structures when the postwar building program gets under way.

Back in the depression era, there was much talk of housing projects to provide employment for the jobless in Escanaba. Even before the advent of CWA, WPA, ERA, PWA and other alphabetical agencies a program for home building was proposed and much discussed, but nothing ever came of it. In the later years of the depression, public housing projects were also considered, but to no avail. If something of this sort had been done at that time, Escanaba would be now profiting thereby, for after all if any community wants to enjoy growth it must have living space available for the people who are willing to locate there.

Escanaba is not afflicted with a housing shortage anywhere as serious as that prevailing in Detroit and other war boom areas, however. Many families, who left the Upper Peninsula to take advantage of the high wages in the war plants, are finding life there far from enjoyable, mainly because they cannot find comfortable living quarters. There are long waiting lists for apartments, and the persons who are fortunate enough to rent them are those who are wise to the wartime racket of slipping the caretaker from $50 to $100 for preferential treatment.

Just what the situation will be in these crowded centers after the war is difficult to foretell. But very likely, places like Escanaba, now experiencing a brisk demand for homes without the accompaniment of a wartime boom, will undertake extensive housing programs as soon as building restrictions are lifted.

The building industry looks forward optimistically too much activity after the war, and already there is developing a cleavage between private and public housing advocates. The fight has begun in the District of Columbia, one of the most overcrowded areas in the country, and is expected to spread throughout the country. The attack is being made first on the National Capital Housing Authority, an agency of the federal government, which during the past 10 years has been making some progress in wiping out Washington's miserable slums.

According to Peter Edson, NEA correspondent in Washington, the pressure groups, battling to destroy public housing in Washington, constitute a curious combination of forces and circumstances.

While he makes it clear that not all associations of real estate, banking, mortgage and building men oppose public housing, Edson points out that the opposition comes principally from these sources:

1. The general tide of opinion against government participation in business, with the accompanying nostalgia for normalcy, free enterprise and the removal of all wartime restraints on private business.
2. The Home Builders' Association of Metropolitan Washington, fronting for the National Association of Home Builders which is carrying on the fight against government housing all over the country, on the grounds that private business can do the job better and cheaper than the government.

3. Real estate, mortgage banking and other financial interests which have big investments in dwellings now standing and naturally do not want competition from any kind of more modern construction.
4. Citizens' associations of individual home owners who feel that their property values have been impaired.

5. Big builders and promoters who have learned a few tricks from public housing and who are out for perfectly selfish grabs in the form of tax-exemption on housing construction, or public subsidies.
6. Small builders who fear they may be driven out of business.

7. Last and most dangerous of all—the racial question, which enters the picture whenever colored families are moved out of slums and into neighborhoods predominantly white.

Present signs indicate there will be a tremendous boom in home construction after the war, for people will have War Bonds and other savings with which to achieve their long-cherished and fondest hope—a home of their own. Quite likely, there will be room for both public and privately financed housing projects. Government financing saved many families from losing their homes during the depression, and if necessary it can be used to provide new homes for those who desire to own them in the future. The encouragement of home-owning is the best investment in good citizenship that can be made in a democratic country like America.

The Late Mr. Wells

NOT long ago a London editor got so mad at Herbert George Wells and some of his ideas, that he published an obituary of Mr. Wells, who is far from dead, in his paper. The editor simply killed Wells off, snuffed him out, and resolved to forget all about him.

Wells, of course, is still alive and writing books. His latest—there must have been 40 or so—is "42 to 44," in which he raises the devil with everything and everybody, in a way that might make one think he had died and come back from the other side with a terrible crouch at the world and its troubles.

Wells says: "Whatever comes of this war, Hitler must not be harmed. He is only a poor, crazy Austrian imbecile. We should put him away in an asylum for criminal lunatics, and forget about him."

Many people who read this will feel that Wells has gone dead—crazy. The trouble is that we can't forget about Hitler and what he has done and is doing to us, and what he will do to us if given the chance. The world isn't safe as long as Hitler remains alive. He may be crazy, but he has bloodied the entire globe and stood it on its head long enough. To put him into an asylum from which he may escape at any time to resume his horrible and perverted career, would be the rankest kind of folly.

There was a time when Mr. Wells was very much alive. With the passing years, however, that wonderful brain of his simply must have ossified. Yes, Wells is dead to humanity's danger, and blind to the need for drastic action with the world's greatest criminal.

Other Editorial Comments

WOOD-WASTE ALCOHOL

(Grand Rapids Press)

After two years of futile jockeying, Chairman Donald Nelson of the war production board has gone over the head of his own requirements committee to approve a $2,247,000 project to build a plant in Oregon to make industrial alcohol from wood waste.

Each time this project, already proved economically sound in test operations, has been advanced the requirements committee has turned it down as of no benefit to the war program. Because of this action widespread and justified surprise was occasioned recently when, after disclosure of an alcohol shortage, a proposal was laid before WPB for a swap of a large quantity of gasoline to Cuba for industrial alcohol.

If the need for war-vital alcohol is so great as to require swapping our tight gasoline supplies to ease a shortage, which threatens to become increasingly acute, it is obvious that some sound measure of providing a greater domestic alcohol production is essential. And no means of overcoming this shortage has yet been suggested which has more merit than the project approved by Nelson.

The United States has been producing about 611,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol annually from sugar and wheat while wood waste, equally effective as an alcohol source, has been burned to get rid of it. The Oregon plant would use it.

OPA WINS AGAIN

(Iron Mountain News)

With the Supreme Court's decision, just handed down, upholding OPA's authority to limit the sales of a retailer who has violated rationing regulations, this agency has an impressive record of vindication at the bar.

Its authority to regulate quantity—without which sellers, prevented from increasing prices, could frustrate control by decreasing the amount without decreasing the price—was upheld by the Supreme Court in a case involving Mars, Inc., a Chicago candy manufacturer.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

If the many keepers of the international apple cart can't make up their minds where they are going, the fruit may be rolling in the street before snowfall. The Democrats were all ready to make a campaign on the issue that Mr. Roosevelt is the only American who can get on with Mr. Churchill. But before long, Republicans may be able to ask for Mr. Roosevelt's defeat because he can't get on with our allies. Even Mrs. Roosevelt is all atwitter over Mr. Churchill's recent references to Spain, although it might have been hoped that the First Lady would refrain from interfering with the many makers of American foreign policy.

The religious dissenters had a theory of individual choice, described by some of them as the right of every man to be his own Pope. Mrs. Roosevelt seems to believe that everyone can be his or her own Secretary of State.

We have been led to believe that in this war Mr. Churchill's speeches are as useful to Mr. Roosevelt as his own, and vice versa. Can it be that this happy arrangement no longer exists? Certainly, Mr. Roosevelt's comments are intended to mean that Mr. Churchill's friendly references to Spain do not represent the President's opinions.

But a good case can be made for the view that Mr. Churchill thought that his remarks were in line with the policies of our State Department. Mr. Churchill could say that, despite the attacks of our left-wing press, the State Department has been successfully pursuing a friendly policy toward Franco. The quick conquest of North Africa was helped by that policy. The freeing of the Mediterranean for the passage of our troops to Italy was promoted by it. And there are other good reasons, which the State Department properly cannot reveal, for England and America to support pro-Spanish policies.

Another consideration which weighs against Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and favors Messrs. Churchill and Hull is equally important. That is the vital necessity of getting three of Hitler's satellites out of the war. These three—Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania—are, like Spain, dictatorships. If they quit, the defeat of Germany will be hastened, and countless lives will be saved.

The thing that must be remembered about cracking these satellites is that, while the current dictators—Horthy, Prince Cyril and Antonescu—cannot be expected to make peace, the people in those countries who will rise when present dictators fall, will be dictator-minded people like our old friend Badooglio. And such intermediate people will be more likely to come over to the Allies if they see in British-American policy a disposition to make terms with anyone who promises to shorten the war. These potential leaders in Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania will see that evidence in the Churchill-Hull policy toward Franco. Perhaps the clamor of the left-wingers kept Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt from realizing that.

Take My Word For it . . . Frank Colby

SURPRISE WORD OF THE WEEK

The word OMELET, by a series of devious detours through the French, comes to us from the Latin word laminia, "a thin layer." Many readers will be surprised to learn that, in best usage, the word has three distinct syllables, thus: OM-uh-let. The two-syllable pronunciation—OM-let or OM-lit—is customary in Britain.

Other familiar words which should not be telescoped are: cabinet, chocolate, violet. Better say: CAB-i-net, CHOK-oh-lit, VIE-oh-let.

How Did It Start?

Milwaukee: How did the term UNCLE SAM originate?—W. V.

Answer: It is said that "Uncle Sam" for U. S. had its origin during the War of 1812. A Mr. Samuel Wilson, known to his kinsfolk and friends as "Uncle Sam," was a government inspector and received, at Troy, N. Y., large shipments of supplies and munitions for the Army. The bales, casks, boxes, and barrels were all marked with large initials "U. S."

Says de Vere, in "Americanisms," (1872) "A facetious workman, being asked the meaning of the letters 'U. S.', in jest replied that he did not know unless they meant Uncle Sam (Wilson). The jest took, was repeated by other workmen, and by them carried into the Army. Thus the name spread from the Commissary's barrel of beans throughout the land, and has never since lost its hold upon the public mind."

"John Bull" for England grew out of a fictitious and satirical book, "The History of John Bull," published by Arbuthnot, British author and physician, in 1712. The main character, John Bull, was represented as the typical Englishman.

Two months ago, in a Macon, Ga., case, the court gave its sanction to control of rentals.

The approach of legal attack no longer offers a promising prospect to interests which would like to break down price control.

The attacks now being made on OPA in Congress are, therefore, something in the nature of a last hope. Six amendments offered by Representative Jenkins, Ohio, and five associates would, in the opinion of administration spokesmen, cripple price control.

IN THE OPEN — Perhaps by the time this is read there may be some change in the situation, but it will not alter the fact that, at long last, the forces for and against adequately financing the public school systems of Delta county are out in the open and can be recognized.

Dunathan

It is interesting to compare those members of the allocation board who favor cutting school millage, and those who believe the schools should receive the same millage as last year.

Those who favor taking away some of the school's tax revenue are: Ralph R. Olsen, county treasurer and chairman of the allocation board; Supervisor Henry Wylie, chairman of the finance committee, a member of the Escanaba city council and a public school teacher; and Supervisor Harold Gassman, sixth man of the commission, appointed last spring by Probate Judge William Miller.

Those who seek to hold for the schools their present tax revenue are:

William Warmington, member of the Escanaba board of education; H. J. Skogquist, Gladstone, who is not affiliated with any governmental unit and can therefore be considered "independent" in his viewpoint; and C. P. Titus, county school commissioner.

FOR AND AGAINST—It is unfortunate that we should find duly elected officials, public servants, who are unable to find a better way out of the county's financial dilemma than to annually juggle millage between the schools and the county. It has been pointed out by civic leaders, and admitted by the supervisors themselves, that this juggling will never answer the problem.

It is unfortunate that members of the tax allocation board should have to struggle endlessly with a problem which could so simply be answered.

It is unfortunate that supervisors of the townships, who are assessing officers, should not be more alive to the threat to county government which they are, by their failure to live up to their full obligation as assessing officers, directly encouraging. If the state should decide that county government needs drastic reform, that townships and their representative supervisors are unnecessary, that the state should have greater control over local affairs—it will be the bungling county boards of supervisors who will be to blame.

The schools have no authority to levy taxes. That is the responsibility of the supervisors. Apparently it is the intention of the supervisors in Delta county to keep tax revenues down to the point where somebody will have to suffer—and they intend to make the school children do the suffering.

THE SHORT END—The schools are on the short end even in the present tax allocation squabble. The county is represented by three men—two supervisors and the county treasurer. The schools are represented by two men—the county school commissioner and a member of the Escanaba board of education.

Mr. Skogquist of Gladstone is not officially connected with any governmental unit. He is the board's one "independent" member. He is holding out for the schools. There is one factor which should receive comment. In 1942 the state law was amended permitting the appointment (in coun-

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

Gladstone—This city is planning one of the most elaborate Fourth of July celebrations in many years. A canvass of business houses in the city showed sentiment strongly in favor of such a celebration.

Delta county Democrats in meeting at the court house last night split wide open in their choice of candidates to endorse for governor. One faction favored John J. Stack, Escanaba man, and another faction, headed by Gerald J. Cleary, county committee chairman, and O. K. Fjetland, secretary to Governor Comstock, favored Comstock's reelection. Cleary declared the meeting adjourned, and with his followers held their meeting on the court house steps.

20 Years Ago—1924

The Escanaba municipal band will present a street dance concert Friday night for the benefit of the band's uniform fund. The advance ticket sale indicates the dance will be largely attended.

Gladstone—The restocking of Delta avenue from Sixth to Eleventh street is now under way, and many of the largest holes have already been repaired.

25 Years Ago—1919

William F. Cass, who has been manager of the electrical and automobile department at the Delta Hardware for the past 15 years, has resigned to take charge of the Needham Electric company's retail store.

Tokyo—Failure of the Japanese delegates to obtain "equality of race" clauses in the League of Nations treaty has brought stinging attacks on President Wilson by the Tokyo newspapers. He is described as "a foe of justice and humanity."

ties such as Delta) of one additional member to the tax allocation board. That would bring the board's membership up to six where previously it had been five.

Last year, when the law permitted the appointment, no sixth member was named by the probate judge. This year such an appointment was made—an entirely legal procedure, of course. Yet it somehow seems a little unfair that, legal as the appointment was, the balance of assured power now rests with the county.

It also permits, as has happened here, that if the "independent" member of the board favors the schools there will be a tie vote on allocation motions.

THE ANSWER—The answer, as pointed out by Prosecuting Attorney Torval Strom, is to have the supervisors assess property in their townships legally, so there will be sufficient tax revenue for the schools—and the county. Prosecutor Strom advises on this point:

"In his zeal to keep the tax burden down for the taxpayer, and to eliminate criticism, complaint and political defeat, many assessors, in the exercise of their judgment, and even in the face of information that they have or could easily secure, if they wanted it, have deliberately devised methods of their own by which they make their assessments at only a part or a certain percentage of the actual cash value."

"As a consequence further, when the allocation board comes to make a distribution of the millage among the units of the county, if any unit does not get sufficient mills to raise sufficient taxes, the situation may become acute as to that unit."

"It therefore becomes very clear that the basic assessments should be made as required by law, to give the correct valuations on which to raise the taxes needed. It appears that in Delta county we have reached the point where we must face the facts courageously and correct wrong methods if they are in operation and regardless of the number of years public officials may have winked at evasions of the basic law."

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Albert Einstein agreed to appear in the Army movie about Germany, one of the "Know Your Enemy" series. At the appointed hour he came to the studio and was given a script to read. When the preparations were completed, Einstein began to recite the script and the movie making began. Suddenly, he waved his hands in the direction of the camera and said: "Stop. Stop." The cameraman stopped the machine. "Isn't that a movie camera which is photographing me?" asked Einstein. "The Army director nodded . . . 'This instrument over my head, isn't it a microphone?' asked Einstein. 'And isn't it recording my speech at the same time the camera is recording my photograph?' . . . The Army director nodded . . . 'You are wasting your time, then, for you are destroying the time equation,' said the scientist, and then he explained why."

THE ARMY DIRECTOR, who was a script writer in civilian life, thought quickly. "Dr. Einstein," he replied, "this difference is compensated for when the movie is shown in the theatres. In the theatres, you will notice, the film projection booth is in the rear, while the screen and the sound apparatus are on the stage. In this way we achieve synchronization." . . . Einstein pondered on this. Then he waved at the cameraman and said: "The time equation has been restored. Proceed please."

AXEL WENNER-GREN, the mysterious Swedish industrialist, is progressing in his attempts to be removed from the State Department's blacklist. A silver factory and a furniture factory which he owns, in Mexico, no longer are blacklisted. Shipments are permitted to cross the border now . . . Gene Fowler is in Denver, completing his newspaper book. He's changed the title from "Solo In Tom-Toms" to "Special Extra."

PAT DI CICCO, released from the Army, and his bride, the former Gloria Vanderbilt, have rented a house in Southampton. . . . At his headquarters in Hawaii, Admiral Nimitz has successfully transplanted a patch of Texas tomatoes. He also has set up, in the court-yard, his private shooting range. Every morning, in full view of the correspondents, Nimitz practices pistol shooting.

THOMAS BENTON is visiting New York now for some sessions with a dentist. . . . He no longer has any art students, for the Army has taken them all. "What about girl-students?" he was asked. . . . "To most girls," he replied, "college or art study is merely the interval between high school and marriage." . . . A noted musician, who was anxious to buy one of Benton's new paintings, said that he was willing to pay the $4,000 at which it was priced. "One artist shouldn't buy from another artist," Benton advised him. "Let the public do the buying. If an artist pays for another artist's work, that isn't progress for art."

FRANCES BELLAVIA, who is blond, slender and 21, is the singer attracting the troops to the Opera House in Sicily. Her performances in "Barber of Seville" and "Rigoletto" drew jammed olive-drab houses. . . . The correspondents, of course, all are anxious to interview her. She designates the place—her home—where 26 of her relatives are always present. . . . Bellavia is eager to get to Hollywood. "Who are your favorite film artists?" she was asked. And the singer who, for most of her life, has been seeing only those movies approved by Mussolini replied: "Mr. Tom Mix and Shirley Temple."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—On October 11 last year, this column reported that Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, ousted commander at Pearl Harbor, had drafted a letter to Secretary of the Navy Knox demanding his trial immediately.

Pearson

This story met with immediate and categorical denial. Then, later, Secretary of the Navy Knox denied it, and Admiral Kimmel himself denied it. Now, eight months later, Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan has made public a letter he has received from Admiral Kimmel confirming what was denied last October—namely, that Kimmel demands trial at the earliest practicable date.

It so happens that this writer saw a copy of Admiral Kimmel's draft letter to Secretary Knox last October, so there was absolutely no question about his proposed plan.

Also, the Admiral had discussed the matter with one of the best Navy lawyers in the country, Col. Harry Leonard (retired), scrappy Marine Corps officer who lost an arm in the Boxer Rebellion and was carried almost lifeless from the battlefield by the late Gen. Smedley Butler, then a lieutenant.

Later, Leonard had occasion to repay Butler when the latter was ordered court-martialed by Herbert Hoover for a speech in which he alleged that Mussolini had run over a child and not even bothered to stop. Col. Leonard handled Gen. Butler's case so skillfully that the court-martial was dropped like a hot potato before it even got started.

Last autumn, Col. Leonard began work on Admiral Kimmel's defense, causing the Navy Judge Advocate General, Admiral Tommy Gatch, to remark privately, "We're in for a tough fight."

But after the publication of the Oct. 11 Merry-Go-Round, terrific pressure was brought on Kimmel by Navy friends to withdraw his demand for an early court-martial, which he did. The fact that the Admiral was employed by a firm of consulting engineers working on war orders and the fact that his superiors were dependent on the Navy for contracts may have had something to do with his about-face.

—HANNEGAN AND FARLEY—

Irish Bob Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, isn't too happy about his friend and fellow-Irishman, Jim Farley, ex-boss of the same committee.

It was Hannegan who recently saved Farley when N. Y. State leaders were about to dump him as chairman of the Democratic State Committee. But the other day in New York, Hannegan had a frank, friendly show-down with Jim which went something like this:

"Look here, you big Irishman. I went to bat for you when you needed help and here's only one thing I want in return—that you support the Chief when the right time comes."

Farley, however, was noncommittal. He made no promise to support Roosevelt, but replied that he was troubled about the state of the world.

—NOTES—

NOTE—Since then, at Democratic National Headquarters, they are wisecracking: "Jim has gone global."

—CAPITAL CHAFF—

Administration leaders, who followed the anti-Roosevelt Texas convention with amazed bewilderment, received word that some of the big oil companies helped organized the county convention which stacked the delegates in advance against the President. . . . But they were even more interested in the activity of Jesse Jones' nephew, who led the anti-Roosevelt vote, and also in the Texas employees of Will Clayton, who holds a high appointment inside the Administration. . . . One reason for British insistence on doing business with Yugoslav Partisan leader Tito is that Churchill's son, Captain Randolph Churchill, has been serving with Tito and assures his father that the Yugoslav leader will stick with the British to the end. Hitherto, Tito was considered a Russian protegee. . . . Some of the Truman Committee members aren't happy over the way gold-brained Captain John Kennedy of the Navy has failed to dig up certain data regarding Wall Street friends of Secretary Forrestal whom he has placed inside the Navy Department. They credit Kennedy with being one of the best politicians in the Navy. . . . George Creel, Woodrow Wilson's war information director, says that his new book, "War Criminals and Punishment," is to do penance for his position after the last war.

—DAYLIGHT SAVING TO END?—

It looks as if daylight-saving time were going to be abolished without giving the President a chance to block the repeal. Several resolutions have been introduced to abolish war time, as a result of protests from farmers in agricultural areas. These are now before Representative Clarence Lea of California and his Interstate Commerce Committee, and it looks as if one of them would be reported out and passed.

If so, it cannot be vetoed by the President, for the original bill establishing war time provided that it was to end six months after the war, or upon a concurrent resolution by both houses of Congress. This latter provision precludes a veto, since resolutions are not subject to being overruled by the White House. In fact, Congressman Lea wrote his original daylight-saving bill in this form for the specific purpose of heading off the White House in case Congress wanted to abolish war time.

The Cleveland library plans to train pages. It'll be nice to just sit and read while they turn over

News From Men In The Service

Robert John Carlson, ship's cook in the U. S. Navy, who has been a patient in a hospital in New Guinea, will be transferred soon to an Australian base hospital according to word received by his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Carlson of Rapid River, Carlson joined the navy in September, 1943.

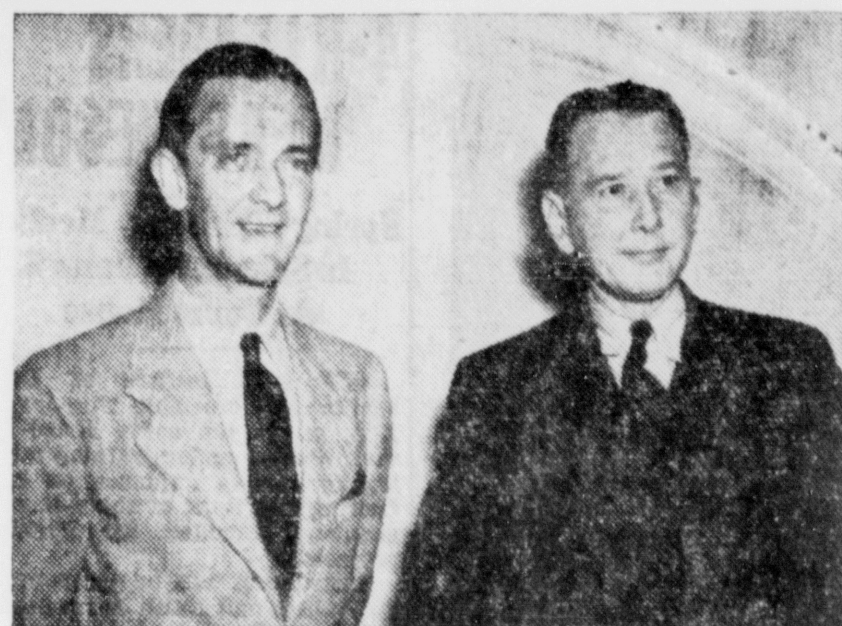

Staff Sergeant Homer J. Turek, of Nahma, Michigan, is serving in the South Pacific with a photo reconnaissance squadron of the 13th AAF, the air force which battled Japs from Guadalcanal to Truk and then turned to assist in Southwest Pacific theater operations.

Sergeant Turek, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Turek of Nahma, is the squadron's supply sergeant. His unit daily sends photo-planes over all targets, develops film and rushes prints to bomber intelligence staffs so the 13th can plan raids more accurately and with a minimum of danger to crews.

Sergeant Turek entered the AAF in April, 1942, left for overseas service in November 1942. A graduate of Nahma high school he previously was employed in local timber mills and lumber yards.

William Gregory, son of Rev. and Mrs. William A. Gregory of this city, a sophomore at Central Michigan College of Education, Mt. Pleasant, was presented the class organization award for sophomores at the first annual Recognition Convocation of the school, held Wednesday evening, May 31. The address, "The Obligation of an Education," was delivered by Dr. W. W. Whitehouse, dean of the College of Liberal Arts of Wayne university.

PLAN V. P. AIRLINE—V. G. Carlson (left), chief pilot of the Midwest Airways, Milwaukee, and Ray P. Knaup, vice president of the company, were business visitors in Escanaba Thursday, in connection with their plans to establish an air mail, passenger and express route from Milwaukee to Escanaba and Marquette. The Midwest Airways, which has been engaged in the aviation business in Milwaukee since 1927, has filed an application for a franchise with the CAA, and a hearing on its request will be held in Washington June 27. The concern began with a charter plane service 17 years ago, but after the outbreak of war was engaged in the training of pilots for the army and navy. Previously, it trained civilian flyers. ## Says Churchill Spoke Of World Of The Past

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Winston Churchill must be considerably surprised by the dust storm kicked up around the world by his speech on foreign policy and his vision of the world today and tomorrow.

Partly, of course, it's political dust. Partly it's being deliberately thrown into the three winds that beat upon this battered old planet.

But partly, too, it comes out of a misunderstanding of Churchill himself. And that is too bad. It means a lot of unnecessary confusion and uncertainty.

Not the Same Churchill? Americans who were disturbed by the lengthy Churchill speech tend to say: "Can this be the man who spoke out only four years ago with such eloquent courage; who fired the world with new hope in the struggle against tyranny?"

The answer is yes. Same man, same mind, same heart. What he did in 1940 no other man could have done. In the controversy that has now begun, it is important to remember that he saved our world because of what he is.

Standing alone, he spoke like another Shakespeare of the eternal truths for which men will fight and die. He sheared through all the doubts and fears of the twentieth century, addressing himself not to a class or a group or a region but to men and women everywhere.

Churchill could speak that way not because he had resolved in his own mind the doubts and fears of our time, but because he's never allowed himself to be troubled by them. He goes back to the heroic days of Queen Elizabeth when the Anglo-Saxon peoples were moving to conquest all over the globe.

A Simple World His is a simple word: a word in which values have not been blurred and distorted. They remain for him as clear and simple as, let's say, the values of right and wrong in the play, "Macbeth." So when he looks to the future, it is to an organization that has familiar outlines. It is why he could say toward the end of his address to parliament:

"We are bound by our 20 years treaty with Russia, and beside this—for my part, I hope to have deserved to be called a good European—we should try to raise the glorious continent of Europe, parent of so many powerful states, from its present miserable condition as a kind of volcano of strife and turmoil, to its old glory as the family of nations and as the vital expression of Christendom."

That's not merely rhetoric. . . . a good European . . . its old glory as the family of nations and as the vital expression of Christendom." Those phrases express Churchill's profound convictions. Perhaps his concept would go as far as a United States of Europe.

The danger in the limitations of the Churchill view, it seems to me, is not for the immediate future. Perhaps the old familiar pattern can be recreated around a three-power alliance—the U. S. A., Britain, Russia. Such an alliance may even be a necessary first step toward something more inclusive.

Peace Through Force But I'm afraid the tendency would be to stop there—with a good, old fashioned, working alliance to maintain the peace by force. The tendency would be to keep patching and tinkering, using string and glue, to make the old skeleton dance again.

The tendency would be to ignore or even to try to repress the larger forces inevitably growing and pushing up beneath the bright, smooth surface of Winston Churchill's world. I mean especially the vesty upward climbing force of peoples still untouched by the revolution of the machine—in India, in Latin-America, in the middle ages.

What, then, of Churchill as a peacemaker? Leadership must come from another source. Churchill's view will have to a considerable section of the American people too much the look of the old game of power politics.

I don't think that we Americans are naively idealistic today. I don't think we want to superimpose any ready made, patterned league. At the same time, however, the makers of the peace must recognize the strain of idealism that is in us.

Both from the practical and the idealistic point of view, we want to move with the forces of the future and not against them. The past as recreated by Prime Minister Churchill is magnificent, but it is the past.

ROAD PLANNING FUND $12,101

Delta County Allocated That Amount For Postwar Plans

Lansing—Amounts the various counties of Michigan may obtain from the $1,000,000 postwar road planning fund set up under Section 2, Public Act No. 57, adopted by the 1944 special session of the legislature were announced today by Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler. The counties may apply for all or part of the money to which they are entitled under the formula for distribution of the money as set up by the act. The formula is based on population, area and road mileage. The counties are required to match the state grants on a 50-50 basis.

The highway department has notified the counties on the maximum amounts they may receive under the postwar planning law and mailed a sample of forms to be used in making applications for the money and instructions on procedure. In event a county does not obligate all its money by application before November 1, 1944, the rest of the amount will be turned back to the fund for redistribution to other counties.

In applying for funds, counties are required to list specific projects on separate applications and submit them for approval to both the state highway commissioner and the state administrative board. After their approvals, the counties are then required to prepare their plans and submit them with a statement of expense. After approval of the plans by the highway commissioner and the administrative board the latter will authorize payment of half of the expense of making the plans up to the limit of the amounts for which the counties may apply.

Following are the amounts available to the counties under the postwar planning act:

Delta county, $12,101; Alger, $7,707; Chippewa, $15,744; Dickinson, $8,249; Schoolcraft, $9,147.

NO PLANS FOR TAX MEETING

Will Wait Until After
Equalization Session,
Says Chairman

County Treasurer Ralph Olsen, chairman of the Delta county tax allocation board, yesterday said that he saw no reason to call a meeting of the allocation board until after the equalization meeting of the county board of supervisors June 26.

Although Prosecuting Attorney Torval Strom had warned that the law requires that a tentative allocation be made by Monday, June 5, Chairman Olsen said that he could see no possibility of the allocation board reaching an agreement even if another meeting were called.

The tax allocation board twice last week deadlocked in its efforts to allocate to the schools and county under the 15-mill tax limitation law, which places responsibility for allocating the millage to the various governmental units of the county.

There are six men on the allocation board. Three motions to set a tentative allocation of millage between the schools and the county resulted in a tie vote each time.

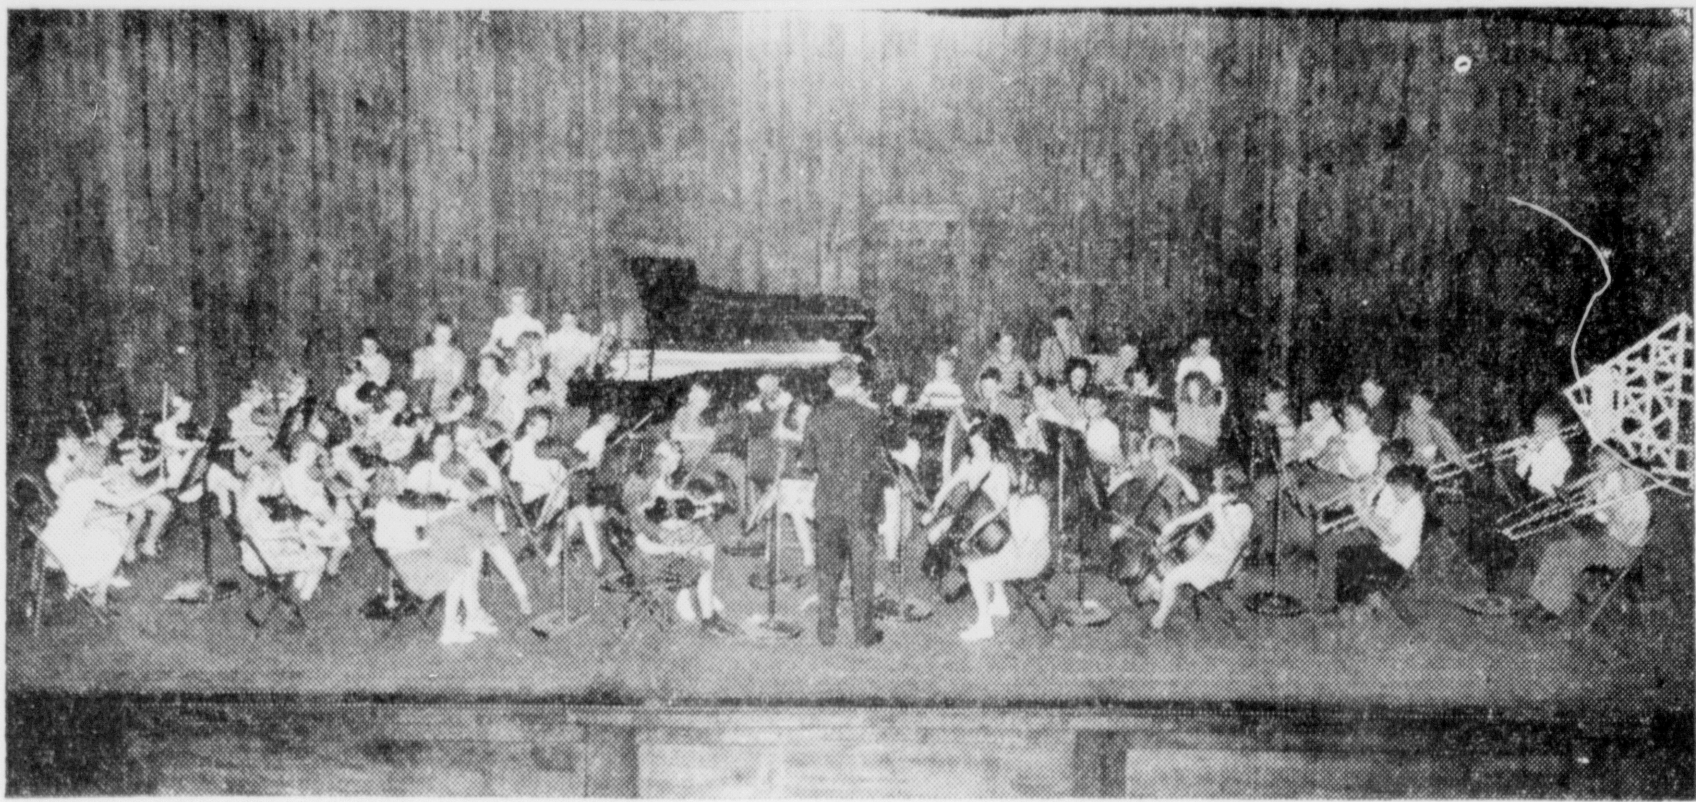

The last meeting was held Friday night, and adjourned after heated debate and threats of representatives of the schools to call in the state tax commission to equalize valuations in the county so that enough tax revenue would be available to finance the school programs in Escanaba and Gladstone.

The equalization committee of the county board is expected to meet in a longer session than in past years. O. J. Thorsen, chairman of the county board, said at Friday's tax allocation meeting that the total county valuation is expected to increase to not less than $17,000,000.

Is Scheduled June 6
At Court House

4-H local leaders of Delta county will assemble Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the court house for their annual spring training meeting to receive guidance on conducting the work of the 4-H club members enrolled for summer projects.

Instruction will be given by O. F. Walker and Edith Johnson, assistant state club leaders from Marquette, who state that they will emphasize planning the club's summer program, including several helps for recreation for club members.

Another feature of the meeting will be a 4-H demonstration which may be used by club members in the county who would like to take part in 4-H demonstration contests. The demonstration entitled "How to Make Your Work Easier."

It is anticipated that the county's program and the number of local leaders will be even greater than in 1943 because food demands are on the increase, and 4-Hers proved last summer that they could assume much of the responsibility for raising and canning food. Many local leaders of these clubs will be new at the job and will find the training meeting very helpful to them.

E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, has notified 4-H leaders of the meeting, and advised them that Delta county is expected to have a county 4-H Club agent stationed here full time soon.

A year ago I couldn't see the reason, nor did I think it could be done . . . but now the story is different and I have learned a whole lot in the last twelve months, in the way of making money for myself . . . and at the same time making a vital, but easy, contribution to our united war effort. It all seemed strange at first when we were asked to save and conserve on Utilities. I thought I couldn't cut down any on what our household was using . . . soon we found out differently when we started turning off unnecessary light . . . using electrical appliances sparingly . . . and only when needed, and keeping them in efficient operating condition . . . we found, too, that we could save money every month by practicing economies with Gas . . . we planned more efficient meal preparation . . . didn't use the oven for kitchen heating, were sparing of the hot water and our water heating costs were cut . . . we also kept hot water faucets in repair and when all these little economies and savings were made we found our Utility Bills were way lower than we ever thought they could be. Now we know, we've proved it . . . and we're buying Bonds with the savings we make every month. It's a lesson for everyone . . . and a war time contribution you can make without inconvenience or sacrifice. Start today to conserve on utilities.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-261: Horace W., aged 55, is a Midwestern clergyman. "Our women's society is very much interested in having you give us an address on marital problems," the president of the society informed me recently.

"If your medical and psychological counsel is too late to be of great aid to some of us older ladies, at least we could pass it along to our married children. I'm especially concerned over my son, for example since he and his wife seem to be in serious trouble."

"Despite all my teachings and religious emphasis, I'm afraid his wife is going to sue for divorce."

"So I broached the matter to our clergyman, suggesting that he invite you to address us. Be he vetoed the idea, saying your talk would only be educational, while we should confine ourselves to spiritual matters."

DIAGNOSIS: In similar fashion the High Priests drove Jesus out of the established church because Jesus wasn't discussing things which they deemed spiritual.

Jesus simply went about DOING GOOD. He healed the sick and cured the psychiatric patients who were insane. He taught the people how to live happily and harmoniously in their homes.

He showed them that racial and religious prejudices were not in keeping either with good sense or God's will.

He shocked the ritualistic slaves of the established church by telling them the church and its rules were only instruments for man's happiness, but that man was superior to all such devices.

"The Sabbath was made for man; not man for the Sabbath," he sharply rebuked the clergy of his day.

Editors are Good Clergymen. Did you know that your progressive editor has brought more people into the churches of your city than any Billy Sunday or other evangelist who probably ever held meetings there?

Do you know your editor has eliminated friction and marital discord? That he has cemented marriages that were falling apart and that he has stopped actual divorces, even when one or both parties had engaged in legal proceedings to dissolve the marriage?

Do you know that your editor has encouraged wayward children to stop short and take stock of themselves? That he has prevented innumerable cases of juvenile delinquency?

Do you know he has added to the harmonious relationships between fathers and sons, or mothers and daughters?

Modern Moral Instruction. Maybe you never thought of your editor as a moral educator, but I have the evidence in the tens of thousands of letters you have sent to me, plus the medico-psychological bulletins and rating scales that I have mailed to readers of this newspaper.

Because your editor courageously took the lead in sponsoring a column like this, which even our leading magazines today are still afraid to imitate, he is responsible for the good that has been accomplished in your city by means of this column and the other educational features which this newspaper contains each day.

Your editor, therefore, is doing more good and preaching far more righteousness than a dozen mossbacked clergymen like Horace. It may surprise both your editor and Horace to realize this fact, but it is true.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

Plywood Storm Boats Lead River Crossings

BY ROBERT TURNER

When you read a communique that our troops have forced a crossing over some water barrier such as, say, the Rhine, in the face of determined resistance, the odds are good that the Engineers put 'em across in a speedy, little plywood "waterbug," officially called the Storm Boat.

The Storm Boat is a striking weapon used to throw a spearhead of assault troops across a wide stream, inlet, or lake before bridges can be built and the element of surprise is impossible. Carrying a fighting team of seven fully equipped riflemen commanded by a "non-com," and a crew of two, its 50 horsepower motor will drive it at 20 to 25 miles per hour, a speed which, with its low lines and great maneuverability permitting quick evasive action, make it a difficult target. On the return trip with a load of only its two-man crew, it will hit up to 35 miles per hour.

Beach at Full Speed

The "passengers" lie face down, head out, ready for action, the instant the boat touches shore. The landing may be a simple slowing down at the river bank up which the assault troops scramble or, if the shore is reasonably low and shelving, the light craft may be beached head on at full speed, its powerful motor often tobogganing it high and dry.

Not intended for surf or rough water, the Storm Boat, fully loaded, draws only 16 inches while underway; 20, when motionless. The outboard motor sits up, away from damage, as the boat is beached.

Having completed its primary purpose of "putting 'em across" to establish a beachhead, the Storm Boat scoots back at high speed to ferry reserve supplies of ammunition, gasoline, and other vital stores. Thereafter, it can be used for liaison and other chores. A busy boat!

In addition to its crew, its most efficient cargo capacity is 1,500 pounds. Heavier loading sacrifices speed.

The boat, which is 16 feet, 9 inches long, by 6 feet, 6 inches wide, weighs 450 pounds, to which is added 200 pounds of motor. It is manned by two trained Engineer operators. One handles the motor and navigates. The other, who occupies a position in the bow during the crossing, helps launch it for the return trip, and acts as liaison with the Infantry, meeting the troops at some inland rendezvous and guiding them to the embarkation point.

The boats are brought to the embarkation point by truck, nested in groups of four for transportation on two-wheeled trailers. The motors are carried in the truck which is used as a prime mover.

From the trucks, parked in a screened position, the "passengers" and crew carry the boats to the point on the shore where the attack is to be launched. Convenient handholds are provided in the gunwale for the purpose. Needless to say, teamwork and timing are the essence.

Designed by Army

The Storm Boat, which was designed by the U. S. Army Engineer Board, is being turned out by a number of builders including: Century Boat Company, Everett Hunter Boat Company, Hammermill Paper Company, C. V. Hill Company, Marine Craft & Manufacturing Company, and the Minnetonka Boat company.

It is constructed of flat and molded plywood, birch being specified for the outer bottom and sides, with the grain running parallel to the keel. Birch is a hard wood, resistant to abrasion, an important factor when the forcible beaching of the craft is considered. White oak, laminated or solid, and shaped by steam bending is used in the stem. The chines and inside keel batten and floor batten are mahogany.

The woods are all dried to a specified moisture content of 12 per cent, and the members assembled with cold setting resin glue and galvanized screws.

The bottom and side planking is quarter-inch, five-ply plywood, a single strike on each side reinforcing the bottom and absorbing some of the abrasion. The square stern transom, which supports the motor, is half-inch, five-ply, flat plywood.

The gunwales are oak riveted to the plywood sides. Handrails are one-inch round hickory with support blocks spaced on one foot centers.

The floor, forming a double bottom, is a single piece of 3-8 inch, five-ply plywood, the grain of its face plies running across the hull. To minimize slipperiness when the inside floor is wet, a finish coat of non-skid deck paint of the best grade used in good marine practice, is applied.

The Storm Boat is subjected to rugged tests. It is run over a measured mile course at maximum throttle to determine its speed and performance under light, intermediate, and full loads. With a load of not less than 1,200 pounds, it is run head on to a gravel or sand beach after a running start of 150 yards to assure maximum speed.

When it has passed that "induction" examination, the Engineers are satisfied that it rates "1-A" and start it toward the front. There is a lot of hard work ahead of the Storm Boat.

BACK YARD IS VACATION SPOT

Travel This Year Will Encounter Serious Complications

BY THOMAS A. BOYNTON
New York, (AP)—Government officials in Washington are urging American workers to take "back yard" vacations this year.

The Office of Defense Transportation has issued this vacation "order of the day":

"Stay at home, plant your victory gardens, learn to know your neighborhood and buy War Bonds—saving for that day when travel will be at its best, ocean-wise, air-wise or otherwise."

But, if you're set on going away here are some things to remember:

1. Stiffening of gasoline rationing for non-essential civilian traffic is probable.

2. Railroads will be busier moving war materials and service personnel.

3. Vacations generally may cost more.

4. Perhaps you may have to do at least a part of your own work.

5. You may have to travel standing up and find yourself on the outside when you get where you are going—if your plans aren't exactly right.

Still, this summer promises to be a boom vacation season, notably for resorts in the mountains and on the seashore of both coasts and in the more accessible sections of the midwest. But the people seem to be taking an official tip to select play areas off the beaten path of heavy traffic in their own region or state and making their plans well in advance.

In the south, vacations already are in full swing. Maj. J. Ross Eakin, superintendent of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, reports that on a recent Sunday automobiles from 24 states were counted.

Many states which boast fine vacationlands but now are teeming with war industries, army camps, flight training and staging areas or naval installations—like Oregon, Washington, Texas, Michigan and Ohio—anticipate "full house" bookings—but they are quick to warn outsiders to stay away.

It's easily understood. There's just no room. Both city hotels and country places are packed, and are being reserved by those who live, work or train nearby. The "Chamber of Commerce Spirit" is in war hibernation.

Excursion Season
Capt. Joe Beach announced the excursions to the Tahquamenon Falls were now opened for the summer season. Only week end trips will be made for some time—probably until July. If a group of persons wish to make the trip during the week, Capt. Beach will make reservations. The trip down the falls requires two and one-half hours each way. An all steel vessel with a capacity of 800 passengers, built especially for sight-seeing. The trolley for the boat leaves "Soo Junction" at 10:00 a. m. C. W. T. and returns at 6:30 p. m.

While racing the engine is wasteful, brisk idling is efficient during the warm-up, helping also to keep the battery on charge.

Pensive's Bid For Triple Crown Fails, Loses Belmont Stakes

BOUNTING HOME PULLS UPSET

Favorite Beaten By Half Length; Bull Dandy Is Third

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

New York, June 3 (AP)—Pensive's bid for the American turf's coveted triple crown failed today when the Kentucky derby and Preakness winner bowed to the lightly regarded Bounding Home in the final drive of the 76th Belmont stakes at Belmont park.

Beating Warren Wright's chestnut at his own game, Bounding Home from William Ziegler, Jr.'s barn, stuck his nose in front of Pensive a quarter of a mile from the finish line and went on to score by a half length, under the guidance of Gayle Smith, Missouri-born jockey who learned how to ride from his cowboy father.

Eight lengths back of Pensive came Mrs. Donald's H. Peter's Bull Dandy, the outsider in the field of seven three-year-olds that battled over the mile and one-half. Then came George D. Widener's strongly backed combination of Who Goes There and Platter by Free Lane and Boy Knight. Platter, second to Pensive in the Preakness, pulled up lame.

With Pensive the 1-2 favorite and the Widener team slightly under 2-1 the others were neglected in the wagering by the crowd of 34,233. As the result bounding home paid $34.70, $8.20 and $5.80 after travelling the distance in 2:32 1-5. The Derby and Preakness victor paid $2.90 and $2.60 while a $2 show ticket on Bull Dandy was worth $19.20.

Pensive had no excuse for his defeat and jockey Conn McCreary offered no alibi.

"I thought I had the race won at the stretch turn when suddenly a stranger ranged alongside of me," said McCreary. "Pensive gave all he had, but Bounding Home was too much of a horse today."

The betting went over the three-million mark for the sixth time during the 24-day meeting, which ended today, when $3,335,097 passed through the mutuels for a daily average of $2,406,706. The total attendance for the season was 625,683.

Athletics Given Pasting By Browns

St. Louis, June 3 (AP)—Turning on the power at a stockholders' day game, the American league-leading Browns smashed the Philadelphia Athletics today, 18 to 8, and widened their margin over the second-place New York Yankees.

The Browns hammered out 17 hits, including a home run by Mark Christman with the bases loaded, another homer by Frank Mancuso, and eight doubles. The Athletics also smacked out 17 hits but got less mileage with only a triple and four doubles in their collection.

AAU Permits Navy Men To Compete Against The Pros

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States has relaxed its regulations to permit amateur athletes in the navy to compete against professionals and retain their amateur status.

Announcing the agreement with the AAU, the navy said today it provides that no amateur shall be penalized for playing as a member of a navy team even when that team plays against professionals. It also provides that if professional competition is authorized for an amateur by his navy commanding officer, for the benefit of his station or an official fund or recognized charity, his amateur status shall not be impaired.

Wise Moss First In Photo Finish

Detroit, June 3 (AP)—Ed McCuan's Wise Moss, running in sixth place heading into the stretch, struck its nose ahead of Abe Hirschberg's Canina for a photo finish decision today in the $10,000 motor city handicap over 14,430 fans at the Detroit race track.

Canina, the 7 to 5 choice which captured the Memorial Day feature here, had a two length lead over C. F. Martin's Believe when they hit the stretch, but Wise Moss came from nowhere under Jockey Charley Stevenson to stage a great climax run. Believe finished third. It was Wise Moss's first victory in nine starts this year.

MARKET KEEPS TO HIGH LEVEL

BY BERNARD S. OHARA

New York, June 3 (AP)—The stock market today ended a generally satisfactory week with specialized buying keeping the list looking fairly well despite profit taking handicaps encountered by many recent climbers.

London came up in the short session, buoyed by revived hopes distillers would be permitted to turn out a certain amount of beverage. Low-priced motors again were the market, although most failed to get anywhere in particular, as interest centered on talk of some automotive plants being converted to civilian production.

Today's gainers, many at highs for 1944 or longer, were Schenley, up 2 points; Distillers Corp., Park & Tilford, Packard Motors (most active), Chrysler, American Telephone, Delaware & Hudson and International Harvester. On the outside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, General Motors, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda and Westinghouse.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 52.2 but on the week showed a net advance of .3 of a point. Transfers totaled 385,540 shares against 415,200 a week ago.

In the curb mill improvement was retained by Electric Bond & Share, Carrier Corp., American Cyanamid "B" and International Petroleum. Turnover here was 107,655 shares versus 104,070 last Saturday.

CHOICE RAILS IMPROVE

New York, June 3 (AP)—Selected rail bonds improved fractions to more than a point today although persistent profit taking in some groups held the bond market generally about even on average.

Turnover for the short session had a face value of $4,139,500 against $4,091,300 a week earlier.

Among the better earlier advances were Wisconsin Central 4s, of '49, up 1/2 at 75, and New York, Susquehanna & Western refunding 1s, up 1/2 at 108. Up fractionally were most issues of the Baltimore & Ohio, North Western 4 1/2s of '39, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Missouri Pacific General 4s, and Nickel Plate 4 1/2s.

Lower included Erie 4 1/2s, Illinois Central 4 3/4s, International Great Northern 4 1/2s, "Frisco" 4s of '38 and Chicago & Eastern Illinois Income, all of which had risen during the recent climb of transport bonds to new high levels.

U. S. governments were steady.

CHICAGO PRICES

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, June 3 (AP)—Bearish sentiment was evident in all grain pits today with general crop prospects and lack of demand principal factors in the decline of all futures prices.

Rye again broke sharply and was off at one time about eight cents from the high point of the week, reflecting an anticipated improvement in supplies for livestock feeding and lack of demand for the cash grain.

Wheat and 1 to 1/2 lower than Friday, July 11, 4 1/2 to $1.68 3/4. Oats were 5 1/2 to 1 1/2, July 24 5 1/2. Rye was down 1/2 to 5 1/2, July 11 to $1.07 1/2. Barley was 1 1/2 to 5 1/2, July 11 to $1.21 1/2.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Yesterday we reported that nothing had been heard on the application of Fritz Miller, Menominee coach, for a commission in the navy. It has since been announced that Coach Miller has been offered a commission as lieutenant, junior grade. He left yesterday for Milwaukee for his final physical examination and to be sworn in. In addition to his coaching duties, he is a mathematics instructor at Menominee high school.

Miller has been exceptionally popular at Menominee, although he has been there only one year. He succeeded Bernard McCann last fall when McCann accepted a position as assistant coach at Lansing Eastern high school.

Miller's football team won six games and lost two, his basketball team won five games and lost six. No replacement has been made yet for Miller, either as athletic coach or mathematics instructor.

Virtually all of the so-called 'experts' picked the Tigers to land the seventh or eighth position in the American league this year and while it's still too early to say that they were wrong, Detroit fans are putting so little stock in the Tigers' predictions that they actually are talking in whispers, at least, about the possibility of a World Series show in Detroit come fall. The Tigers are getting pitching—and plenty. Some of the big leaguers claim the Tigers' hurling staff is tops in the circuit this year.

Will Sgt. Joe Louis accept Cpl. Billy Conn's offer for a 15 round bout for services only, and, if so, will the war department approve? If the proposed bout would necessitate Louis putting his heavy-weight title on the line, it is hardly likely that he would accept. If the champion's financial affairs are in the fix that was indicated a year ago when the Louis-Conn bout was first scheduled, it certainly would be a monumental sacrifice to jeopardize his one chance of straightening out his finances after the war. War department approval probably could be obtained for such a bout, provided the affair did not interfere in any way with the invasion business now at hand.

Hit and Miss—Charlie Larson, former press scribe, reports from Chicago that Lloyd Seestadt who raced with Fred Alderman in the first U. P. Relays was from Michigan Tech and not Michigan State. Hal Peck, Brewers' leading hitter making a big comeback this year, is a pinch to move up to the majors before long, the experts say. All of the worries about keeping high school athletics going, so rampant the past two years, have disappeared. Transportation is still a problem but not insurmountable, as the record shows.

Angie Galan led the Brooklyn attack with two doubles and a triple to stretch his batting streak through fifteen games.

As in Friday night's game, a similar rubarb occurred when Umpire Barr ruled that Mickey Owen was caught at third before Hawley Schultz had scored on Bobby Bragan's single. Once again the Dodgers protested and the game was delayed while Leo Durocher argued with all three umpires.

Cleveland Takes 13-Inning Game From Yankees, 5-4
Cleveland, June 3 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians won a 13 inning game from the New York Yankees when Manager Lou Boudreau singled with two out to score Kenny Keltner with the winning run.

Homers by Roy Cullenbine, his sixth and seventh of the season and another by Jeff Heath had accounted for three of the Indians four runs. Cullenbine's second homer came in the tenth, after the Yankees had taken a one run lead in their half of the inning, when Johnny Lindell doubled and scored on Mike Garbark's single.

Albion, Mich., June 3 (AP)—Albion College will resume intercollegiate athletics with the advent of basketball next winter. Athletic Director Dale R. Sprankle announced Saturday. Such sports there is manpower available for will be engaged in thereafter, he said. Albion dropped all sports a year ago, because of the draft.

FINED FOR SWEARING
New York, June 3 (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today was fined $50 for "using profane language and kicking dirt" while protesting a decision by Umpire Jocko Conlan in last night's Brooklyn-Chicago game at Ebbets field. The fine was imposed by National League president Ford Frick. Durocher was banished from the game by Conlan.

Northern Motors Challenge C&NW

The Northern Motors players challenged the Chicago North-400" softball team's claim that they are the top old timer's team in the Peninsula and will meet them in a regular game at No. 4 diamond Tuesday night beginning at 7:00 o'clock.

The Ford team line-up will contain many players who have grown up with the sport and who helped the Motors win championships in city tournament play in earlier years and the last old time league title. According to Roy Johnson, acting manager, about twenty players will be given try-outs for positions with the pitching assignment going to Homer LaCasse, left handed curve artist who has been twirling them in for a good many years.

The Railroaders are definitely no push overs, boasting such prominent old timers as Racine, Fred Boddy, T. Ryan, H. Moreau, E. Burbe, Mike Kuchenberg, J. Guay, M. O'Donnell, L. LaFleur, H. Derouine, A. Anderson, Ovid DeMars, and J. (Sparky) Johnson. Boddy will probably receive the nod from Manager Claude Fisher for starting pitcher with Racine the other end of the battery.

TIGERS BEATEN BY RED SOX

Second String Pitchers Pummeled To Tune Of 11-1

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA

Detroit, June 3 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers took a gamble on their second string pitching today and failed as the Boston Red Sox scored an 11 to 1 victory to end Detroit's seven-game winning streak.

Fresh out of regular starters, Manager Steve O'Neill sent Rookie Joe Orrell and three successors against the Red Sox, who gathered eight hits and took advantage of ten passes. The big hero in the Boston attack was Rookie Third Baseman James Bucher who drove in six runs, four of them with a grand slam homer off Elton (Chief) Hogsett in the ninth inning.

Meanwhile, the Tigers got 11 hits off ranky Tex Hugheson, who left 14 stranded while fashioning his sixth victory. The defeat was charged to Orrell, his first major league setback. He won his first game in a relief assignment three days ago.

Topping off his big day, Bucher knocked in what proved to be the winning run in the second inning. The Tigers seized a one-run lead in the first on Eddie Mayo's double and Rudy York's single, and that ended Detroit's score.

The defeat was Detroit's fifth in 19 games and second in five starts against Boston this year. The Sox squared the current series at one game.

Tomorrow the two clubs end their series in a war relief double header. Paul Trout and Rufus Gentry will oppose Vic Johnson and Yank Terry of Boston on the mound.

The defeat dropped the Tigers two and a half games behind the leading St. Louis Browns, but Detroit lost no ground to the New York Yankees who also were beaten.

YOUNG STARS IN ILLINI VICTORY

Freshman Sprinter Cops Three Events In CCC Meet

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Great Lakes, Ill., June 3 (AP)—Freshman Claude "Buddy" Young won three events and ran a lap on the victorious mile relay team today to escort Illinois to its second successive championship of the Central collegiate conference track and field meet.

Illinois, runner-up in the Western conference games last week, bagged six firsts and shared another to accumulate 57 1/2 points—the most since Notre Dame won the 3-C crown with 69 in 1930.

Great Lakes finished second with 46 points, followed by Notre Dame with 25, Purdue 14; Marquette 13 1/2; Lawrence college, 11; Michigan 9; Minnesota 6; Illinois Tech 3; Indiana 2; Chicago, Central Michigan and St. Thomas college with one apiece.

Young, a stubby, 18-year-old pre-medical student, was presented with the John P. Nicholson cup—a memorial for the late Notre Dame track coach—as the outstanding athlete in the meet. He streaked through the 100-yard dash in 9.8, the 220 in 21.3, the broad jump 22 feet 10 1/2 inches, and kept the Illinois defending mile relay champions in front in a blazing third lap run that helped his team finish ahead of Great Lakes with a fine 3.23.3 clocking.

Hume Twins Win
The meet, staged on the naval training center's new track before 7,000 recruits, failed to produce any new records, but Young's 21.3 in the 220 was only one-tenth of a second of the mark set by Marquette's Ralph Metcalf in 1933.

Michigan, Big Ten team champion, was represented by "dead heat kids," twins Bob and Ross Hume. For the eighth time this season they finished in a tie in the mile race, turning in their best time of 4:14.6. Their previous lows were 4:16.4 out doors and 4:14.9 indoors.

Bob Kelley, Illinois captain, successfully defended his 440-yard title in 48.9, but Bill Belle of Purdue beat him by 10 yards to win the $80 in 1:57.3 in the mile's biggest upset.

Nelson Klaus of Purdue, Big Ten weight champion, won the 100-pound title with a push of 47 feet 9 1/4 inches, but Joe Kelly of Notre Dame out-tossed him in the discus by nearly two feet, winning with 137 feet 6 1/2 inches.

Other champions: Pole vault—Phil Anderson, Notre Dame and Bob Phelps, Illinois, tied at 12 feet 4 inches; high jump—Ken Weisner, Marquette, 6 feet 2 1/2 inches; 120-yard high hurdles—Dave Nichols, Illinois, 15.4; two-mile—Jerry Thompson (1943 NCAA titleist from the University of Texas), Great Lakes, 9:31.9; 220-yard low hurdles—Sam Lankford, Great Lakes, 25 seconds.

Dickey Sworn In As Navy Officer
Memphis, June 3 (AP)—Bill Dickey, one of baseball's greatest catchers, was sworn into the naval reserve here today as a lieutenant.

WEATHER TAKES SUDDEN LURCH

Beach Will Be Open Today—If Temperature Goes Higher

Following nearly a week of unusual warmth, the weather took a sudden lurch early Saturday with a drop of nearly 20 degrees in maximum temperatures.

The high thermometer reading Friday was 74 in Escanaba, compared with a maximum reading of only 55 yesterday. A similar drop was recorded in minimum temperatures—61 on Friday to a chilly 48 yesterday.

The "break" in the weather was heralded during the night of Friday and Saturday by a thunderous storm, accompanied by peals of lightning and a brisk wind that broke trees in many surrounding areas.

The weather forecast for today is continued cool, cloudy and occasional showers, with a chilly wind. In other words, today will probably be just another dismal day like yesterday.

The cold weather forced the cancellation of the opening of the Escanaba municipal bathing beach, scheduled for Saturday afternoon. If the weather man is wrong, however, and warmer weather arrives today, the beach will be open from 1:30 to 5 p. m. and from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening. Emphasis is made upon the fact that if the weather is unfavorable for swimming, there will be no guards on duty and parents are urged to warn their children not to swim in cold weather because of the danger of cramps.

Telephone service will be available at the beach again this season, Director Bevier Butts reported yesterday. The installation at the beach has been completed.

Old Orchard Farm

Dual Purpose Milking Shorthorns Purchased

Against the advice of all dairy experts and the recommendations of most dairymen in this section, Old Orchard farm, the Daily Press experimental farm at Flat Rock, is going to find out if there is such an animal as a dual purpose cow. Negotiations were closed last week for the purchase of three registered Milking Shorthorn heifers and a bull calf, that are to be delivered at the farm within a short time. These young animals were purchased at this time in order that they may become acclimated to this section before they have reached the breeding stage of development and the change over to the breed of cattle will be made gradually, as the foundation herd increases from year to year.

In addition to the farm manager's own desire to experiment with Milking Shorthorns he has been requested by a number of dairy farmers in this section to take this step. It is recognized that the advice given by the dairy experts, and others who have been consulted is soundly founded, but there are non-conformists who still believe there is such a thing as a dual purpose cow. When the herd reaches the milking stage accurate records will be kept and if the experiment should fail the farm manager will try to be honest enough to admit it.

Plans Gradual Changeover
The farm manager believes he has about as good a herd of Jerseys and Guernseys as will be found in this section. It is going to be a little hard to part with some of these cows and heifers, that have been raised at Old Orchard, but the change over will be made so gradually that the new comers may win a place in the interest of the farm crew and readers of this weekly column, that will recompense for any loss that may be sustained.

Through the active and hearty cooperation of W. J. Hardy, secretary of the Milking Shorthorn Society of Chicago Old Orchard's foundation herd of shorthorns, has been purchased from the herd of W. J. McRoberts, of Harvard, Ill., one of the leading Shorthorn breeders of the middle west.

The purchase includes the following animals:
1 Red bull calf, born Dec. 27, 1943, Sire Flinstone Robin Hood, dam, Mamie Belle RM.
2 Leta Star 2d qm, 2170842, red, born Jan. 23, 1943. Sire Robin Victor, Dam Leta Star R. M.
3 Model Bess 6th qm 2170843, red, born Feb. 9, 1943. Sire Robin Victor, Dam Model Bess 2nd, RM.
4 Julie Lady, qm 2178728, red, born Mar. 6, 1943. Sire Robin Victor, Dam Julie Lassie RM.

In order to give the breed the best possible chance to make good in this section the farm manager has become a member of the Milking Shorthorn Society and the herd will be managed in close conformity with the advice of the officers and members of that organization.

It has been learned that Old Orchard is not pioneering in the introduction of Milking Shorthorns in either this county or section. Until recently there was a Milking Shorthorn herd in Esch township, which was sold because the owner was unable to obtain farm help and there is another herd in Cornell township, where the owner is most enthusiastic over the results he is obtaining.

Now that Old Orchard's future cattle program has finally been settled, to the satisfaction of the farm manager, if no one else, other farm matters can receive their usual attention.

Other Farm Activities
All of Old Orchard's crops, for the season of 1944, are now in the ground and last week a portion of the corn crop was given its first cultivation. An almost perfect stand of the crop was obtained and the plants have now reached a height of more than six inches giving every promise of producing a bumper crop this fall. Favorable weather and plenty of cultivation are now the only requisites for that final accomplishment.

Practically all of the garden seed was planted in the farm garden last week, but tomato, cabbage, cauliflower and pepper plants, are still to be set out. The peas, radishes, lettuce, onions and beets are already above ground and it won't be long before that spot will be producing some succulent eating on the farm tables. The sheep herd last week furnished the solution to both the help problem and the antipathy of the farm manager toward hard work under a hot sun, by "mowing" the lawn around the farm house. One section of the yard was temporarily fenced off and the ewes and their lambs are doing a great job in getting rid of that long grass. They don't know they are working but they are eliminating a lot of sweaty hours pushing a lawn mower around the place.

King and Sharp, the farm dogs don't like the arrangement particularly, for the temporary fence cuts down the size of their usual play ground—but they never did seem to care how much work their old man had to do, while they lie in the shade.

LIGHTNING FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE

Soo Hill Family Escape
Injury; estimate loss
At $1,500

Lightning that struck the top of the house and crashed through to the stone foundation at 2:25 a. m. yesterday started a fire that caused damages estimated at $1,500 to the Ben Nelson home at Soo Hill.

Mr. Nelson and his four children, the oldest 15, escaped uninjured.

The Nelson home is a two-story brick veneer structure. The interior was almost completely destroyed in the fire that followed the lightning.

Two Escanaba firemen were dispatched to the fire from Escanaba, and with the assistance of three volunteers fought the blaze and brought it under control at 5 a. m.

Only articles saved from the house were some clothing and a few articles of furniture.

Nelson, a widower, is employed at the Escanaba Paper company mill. Except for a change in his work shift he would ordinarily have been absent at the time the lightning struck.

Fireman James Smith said that he believed the children might have been burned to death in the fire had not Nelson been at home. Smith and John Kirkpatrick were the firemen who successfully fought the blaze with the assistance of three men who volunteered their help.

The fire spread rapidly throughout the walls of the house. The firemen stayed until 7 o'clock in the morning before they left, assured that the fire was completely out.

Allied bombings of Europe in 1943 cut 500,000 barrels out of Germany's annual oil supply.
